Mr. Hog, a magistrate for the counties of Linlithgow, Mid-Lothian, and Fife, and a deputy-lieutenant of the first-named shire, s. his brother Roger, 31 Dec. 1833.

Lineage.

The surname of Hog, one of local origin, is of great antiquity in Scotland: coeval with the retirement of Cospatrik, Earl of Northumberland, into North Britain, about the time of the Norman Conquest, it became hereditary in the reign of MALCOLM CANMORE, and was first assumed by the proprietors of the lands of Hogstown, in the shire of Angus, for we find in the bond of submission given in 1296 by the barons of Scotland to EDWARD I. of England, as recorded in Pryne's history, that ALEXANDER HOG, ancestor of the family of whom we are treating is styled "Alexander de Hogstown." This Alexander was father of JAMES HOG, who m. Jean Henderson, and had a son, ROGER HOG, a bargess of Edinburgh in 1330, who acquired different charters in the reign of DAVID II. of the lands of Dalry and Elstfentown, in the constabulary of Haddington; he gave a dotation of the lands of Pittravie, in Fifeshire, to St. Nicholas' altar; and a charter in the same reign appears in ROBERTSON'S Collections: "Roger Hog, burgens of Edinburgh, tenementi et omnium terrarum et annuorum reddituum ejus in dicto burgo, 23rd Augt. a. r. 34." His son, JOHN HOG, who is mentioned in the second roll of the General Register-house, as having obtained, in the 3rd of King ROBERT II., A.D. 1373, a charter confirming a grant, of the deceased Isabel, Countess of Fife, to himself and his mother, Margaret, out of the lands of Over and Nether Sydserrif, in the barony of North Berwick, was father of ROGER HOG, whose son, ALEXANDER HOG, of Hogstowa, gave a charter of alienation to Sir Alexander Hume, in the reign of James III. (1484.) He was founder of the house of Harcarse, in Berwickshire, from which sprung Sir Roger Hog, senator of the College of Justice, and also,

JOHN HOG, Esq. of Cammo, (now New Saughton,) co. Mid-Lothian, and Ladykirk, co. Berwick, son and heir of WILLIAM HOG, Esq., immediate younger brother of Sir Roger Hog, Knt. of Harcarse, one of the senators of the College of Justice, by Janet, his wife, dau. of Sir Robert Douglas, Knt. of Glenberrie, grandson of Archibald, 5th Earl of Angus. He m. 27 June, 1707, Mary, dau. of Alexander Cochrane, Esq. of Barbauchlaw, co. Linlithgow, and had issue,
